IN MEMORIAM

With deep respect we, the members of the class of 1962, honor the memory of Mr. Wilfrid McCulloch, who was a patient and understanding friend of all Shead High students.

“. . . We have but faith; we cannot know,
For knowledge is of things we see;
And yet we trust it comes from thee,
A beam in darkness: let it grow. . .”

from “In Memoriam”

by Alfred Lord Tennyson

DEDICATION

We, the members of the graduating class of 1962, take pride in dedicating this edition of the Passamaquoddy Oracle to Mr. Roger Davis, our basketball coach.

Mr. Davis has worked diligently for the past seven years instilling good sportsmanship and the will to win into the hearts of all his athletes.

We extend to Mr. Davis our best wishes for future success and happiness.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Seated (left to right): K. Peters, C. Hicks, C. MacGregor, W. Hicks.
 Standing: Mr. Flagg, Advisor.

Senior Class History

The class of '62 entered Shead in September of 1958. At the Freshman Reception held by the seniors, Kenneth Peters and Cheryl Hicks were chosen king and queen.

After we became better acquainted with our classmates and surroundings, we elected the following class officers: President, Carol MacGregor; Vice-President, Cheryl Hicks; Treasurer, Phoebe Alley; and Secretary, Sharon Carson.

During the freshman year, we sponsored one social, which was a great success.

In September of 1959, we entered Shead as sophomores. During that year we held our second social, "The Unlucky Hop," which also was a success.

During that year Kenneth Peters and Walter Hicks were chosen as our treasurer and our secretary.

In September 1960, we began the busy schedule of the junior year. Our social "The Harvest Hop" supplemented our treasury greatly.

In January we held tryouts for Junior Speaking. Cheryl Hicks, Michael Healy, John Johnson, Marilyn Taylor, Cynthia Rice, and Carol MacGregor were chosen. Marilyn Taylor and Michael Healy were selected to represent Eastport at Machias.

One of the biggest tasks during our junior year was the publication of the "Salt Spray."

Carol MacGregor was chosen to attend Girls' State at Colby College. Michael Healy and Walter Hicks were the Boys' State representatives at the University of Maine.

In September 1961, we returned to greet our long-awaited senior year. Our first event was sponsoring the Freshman Reception. Next we elected our Oracle Board with John Lewis as editor-in-chief.

Student council members from our class are Cheryl Hicks, Carol MacGregor, Dale Cook, and Cynthia Rice.

1. Well, I figure it this way....

2. Please Rover! Please! Let's do the twist!

3. I have just one question to ask...

4. You know what I want to be when I grow up.

5. Isn't he cute!?

6. Say, have you ever been abroad?

7. How do you like being a member of the ACE CLUB?

8. Are you kidding me?

11. Ginger, will you stop being a sorehead!!

12. Why don't you play golf anymore?

9. Will you do that once more? I wasn't looking before.

10. You think that's funny, wait a minute!

13. Humph!! Who do you think you are?

14. Where were you during the De-De-Dinah Daze?

1. Enough is more than enough!

3. I wonder where everybody went.

2. Personally I don't believe it.

4. Nope! I don't like girls!

5. My daddy knows.

6. Do you suppose boys really don't wear dresses?

7. Boys make me sick!

9. Are grapes really made of wax?

8. Hiya! My name is Mac!!

10. I must be a mole or something.

11. Whew!!

12. Hmm!?

13. Did she actually get her pigtail caught in the refrigerator door?

14. See that house over there?

15. I dare you to make just one smart remark!

16. So you think you want to be a singer.

17. Will somebody turn that sunbeam off?

18. Ugh!! Just to think of it makes me shudder!!

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

The class of 1963 entered Shead in September, 1958. As customary, the seniors sponsored the Freshman Reception, at which Jack Mitchell and Moneda Auclair were chosen as king and queen.

During the next few weeks, the class elected class officers. They are as follows: President, Jack Mitchell; Vice-President, Brenda Morrison; Secretary, Richard Flagg; and Treasurer, Lois Conley.

Our student council representatives this year are Jack Mitchell and Catherine Dudley.

This year the junior class has sponsored one dance, "The Harvest Hop".

The junior class has held tryouts for Junior Speaking. Those chosen to speak at the annual Junior Speaking Exhibition are Linda Nichols, Moneda Auclair, Cheryl Lovely, Janet Emery, Donna Russell, and Wayne Newell.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

Our freshman year started with the Freshman Reception, sponsored by the seniors. Patti Mullen and Michael Cushing were chosen as queen and king.

On March 3, 1961, we held our social. Sandra Ramsdell and the Diatonics provided entertainment.

The first event of our sophomore year was a social called the "Twister." "Connie Francis" and "Chubby Checkers" entertained.

We are very proud of the fact that this year we won first place for the class having the highest number of magazine sales per person in the Annual Magazine Sales Campaign.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

We, the freshman class, entered Shead in September 1961. We were welcomed by a Freshmen Reception sponsored by the senior class. Madonna Phinney and Dale Fenderson were chosen as the royal couple. They were honored by the customary waltz.

We elected our class officers in November. They are as follows: President, Sonja Stevens; Vice-President, Ellen Tittermary; Secretary, William Brown; and Treasurer, Gary Morrison.

In December we held our first dance, "The Jingle Bell Rock."

We are now well adjusted to Shead, and we know that our four years here will be happy as well as beneficial.

The Band Report

The Shead Memorial High School Band began its yearly program in 1961 by holding the annual fall concert, conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, on December 14, 1961. This program featured the band, but also included groups from the Grammar School, Primary School, and the High School Glee Club.

This year the Eastern Maine Festival will be held in Brewer on May 12. The Washington County Festival will be held in Lubec on May 29. Since the Eastern Maine Festival will be exceptionally large and challenging, we are looking forward to it.

The band officers for the current year 1961-1962 are as follows:

President	Walter Hicks
First Vice-President	Rod Green
Second Vice-President	Thomas Whalen
Secretary	Carol MacGregor
Supervisor	Mrs. Elizabeth Brown

STUDENT COUNCIL

Student Council

The first meeting of the Student Council at Shead High was held in January. Because of the arrival of new students from Dennysville, Edmunds, and Marion, the date of organization of the council was postponed.

The primary aim of the Student Council is to provide and encourage student participation as it affords adequate representation for the students. The Student Council also promotes better student-faculty relations. Many other objectives, too lengthy to mention here, are important aims of Shead High's Student Council.

One of the many projects undertaken this year by the Student Council was the sale of Shead note paper. Money from these projects is used for equipment such as record players or movie projectors.

GIRLS' AND BOYS' STATES

Girls' and Boys' States are programs for training girls and boys in good citizenship. They are sponsored by the National Auxiliary of the American Legion for the girls and the American Legion and the Rotary Club for the boys. Boys and girls of high school age take part in the state-wide schools which are called states. They hold elections, carry on the business of government, and have athletic and recreational programs.

The meetings usually are held on college campuses. Girls and boys are chosen on the basis of their qualities of leadership, general ability, scholarship, and personality.

The girls and boys who attend the states learn about American government by setting up a government like that of state, county, and city governments in the United States. The girls and boys run for any office they wish and conduct their own political campaigns. Elected or appointed officials range from a governor to a justice of the peace and police constables. They distribute manuals which give clear-cut outlines of the duties of each official. The election machinery includes meetings of party leaders, conventions, and elections.

Patriotic programs are held, including flag-raising ceremonies. A daily newspaper is published and glee clubs are active. Girls' and Boys' States also have sports and recreation programs, which teach the members the principles of good sportsmanship.

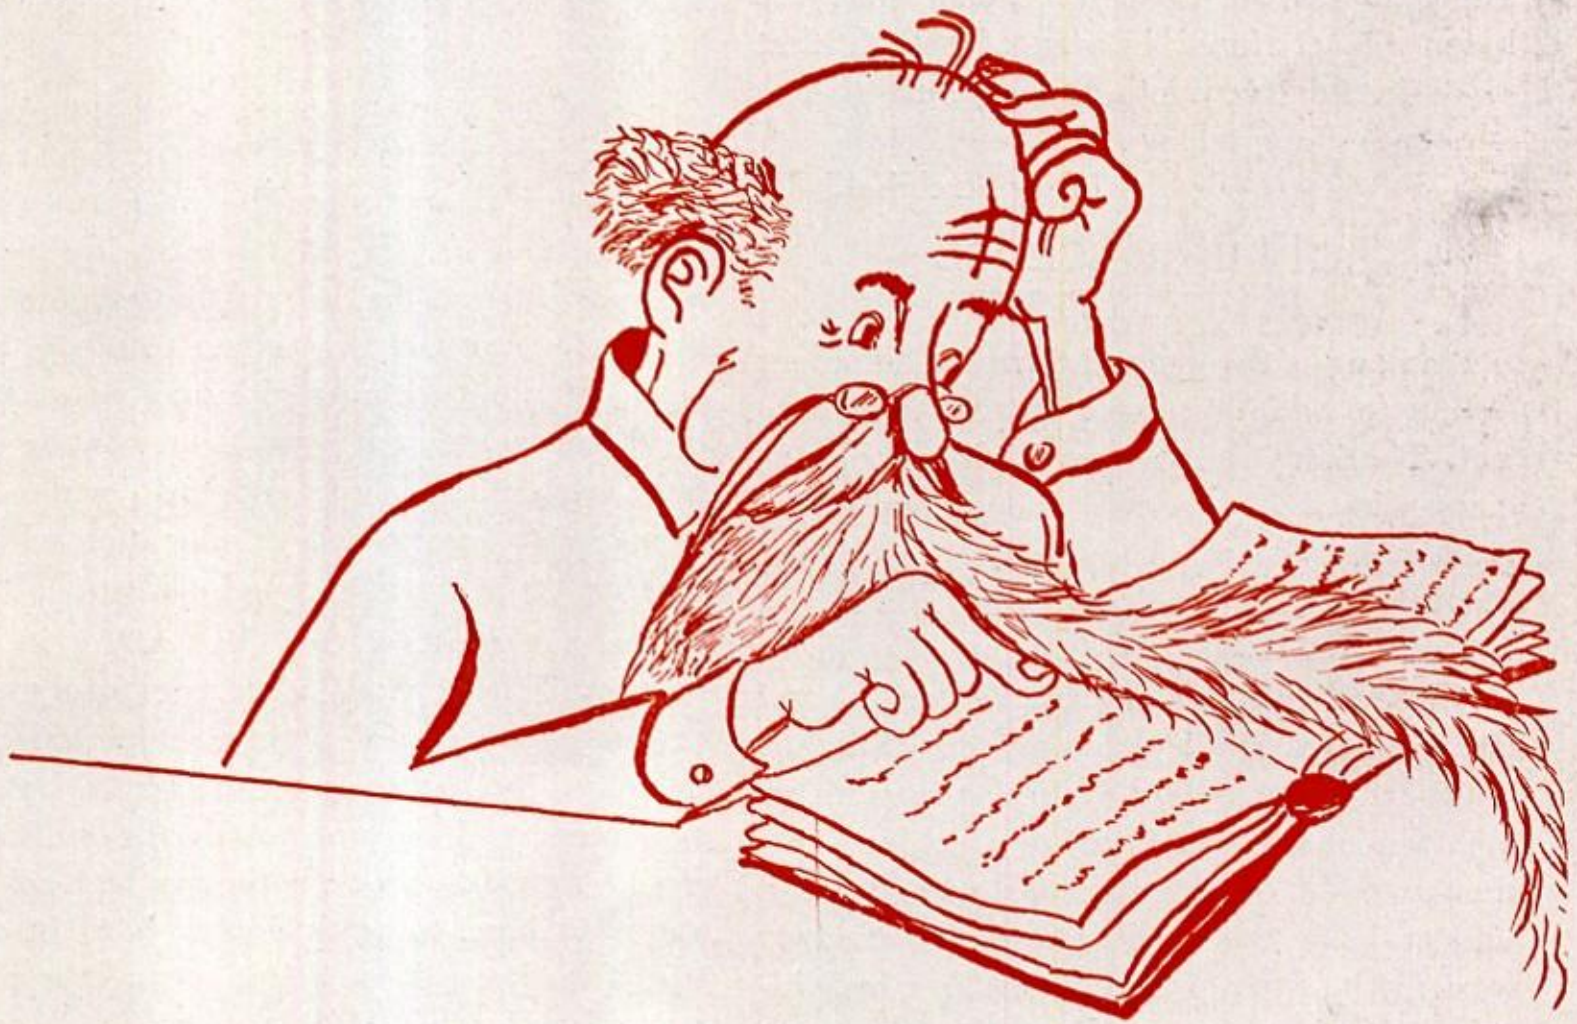

In June of 1961, Carol MacGregor, Michael Healy, and Walter Hicks attended Girls' and Boys' States. Cynthia Rice was chosen as alternate.

Girls' State was held at Colby College in Waterville while Boys' State was held at the University of Maine in Orono.

A UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE

To have every country speak the same language would be one of the most remarkable achievements the world has ever undertaken. This task would be enormous and would naturally need the help of every person in the world. The dangers of misinterpretation and misunderstanding that are so prevalent in this day and age would be greatly decreased. This would mean one very important step forward in the fight for peace.

Customs and ideas of our neighboring countries would be made so much clearer that before long there probably would be a complete bond of friendship among the countries.

To be thus united would mean one language that the entire world would be willing to have. As Americans we probably would want to continue using the English language; but whether we are to speak English, Russian, or Spanish is not half as important as the desire of each country to lessen the confused barrier of speech that exists in this twentieth century and to understand one's fellow-man.

WHY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS FLUNK

Flunking is the general term for a student failing to achieve passing grades in a subject. Flunking is taboo to high school students who are concerned about their school grades and the importance of these grades in their future academic work. When a student flunks, the result is usually fewer privileges, early curfews on weekends, and long, imposed study hours on school nights.

What are some of the ulterior reasons for high school students flunking a subject? Although 95% of the students who flunk a subject have the ability to do satisfactory work in it, there are always a few individuals, who just do not have the ability to do that particular type of work. This reason is plainly seen, however, and needs little discussion; but what about the student who has the ability to do good work in a subject, such as a language or math, and yet he still fails. There may be several underlying possibilities which determine this.

One such possibility may be family problems. During adolescence, a young man or woman has a very delicate relationship with his parents. Many family problems such as separation of parents during their teen-age years or parents who take no interest whatsoever in their children may be the cause of great injury to a teen-age boy or girl. Distraught emotions can greatly affect a student's rank. The boy or girl's mind becomes so occupied and obsessed with worry over his home life that, consequently, his ranks show the effect of these emotions. This is a serious problem with high school students and should not be treated lightly. The correction of this problem requires an open and willing mind of the student and a more understanding mind on the parents' behalf.

Still other students who are failing hold outside jobs which take up a considerable amount of their time. This is particularly true of boys, for at this time in life a boy feels as though he should be earning his keep. He may feel that going to school is a waste of time. Although he may be making good wages now, ten years from now he will be making the same amount, while his friends who have a college education will be making three times as much as he.

Students must realize that school is important if they want a decent future. No matter what type of problem a person has, if he will look at himself objectively, he can overcome it. It is not worth the student's trouble to waste precious time in high school and thus have to work doubly hard in college if he has a keen desire to make a good living for himself.

THE EXPLOSIVE GENERATION

From the many wild interpretations of the Twist to quiet discussions of national affairs or of a math problem, today's youth is truly what Look Magazine has recently termed the "explosive generation."

There is less difficulty now in exerting individuality than there was a few years ago. Teens of the sixties are climbing above the complacency and conformity of the teens of the fifties.

Pro-intellectualism is "the thing". There is a fast increasing desire for knowledge and a drive for more and more learning. Fewer students are becoming satisfied with just a high school diploma. Not only has the number of high school graduates attending colleges and universities increased, but the percentage also has shot up.

Teens are taking part in politics, even though they don't have the right to vote. Political campaigns are organized; there have been demonstrations and riots from Turkey to the Congo, instigated by teenagers and young college students, more keenly aware of the world situation and of international politics than many, many adults who have the right to vote and abuse it. Perhaps these incidents aren't constructive, but they are examples of youth voicing its opinion—always doing something new, always helping, making, organizing, inventing, searching, and finding. They are never at a standstill.

Teens are growing more and more realistic and rationalistic about life and their outlook on life. This can be illustrated by the gradual change in preference of music from abstract, cloud-9, off-in-a-dream songs to practical, feet-on-the-ground, folk music and blues.

Teens of the sixties are making things happen, and as tomorrow's citizens they will continue to make things happen. So don't just wait for an opportunity to knock; reach out and grab one as it starts to pass. Be one of the teens that Look calls "explosive". Get up and go!

WOW, WHAT A DREAM!

One cold, wintry night I found myself awakening only to discover that I had an utterly fantastic dream.

The time was 8:45 on a Monday morning. Each student reported to his home room and took his seat. At 8:50 the last bell rang. Everyone sat waiting for the teacher to appear. But he did not come.

The bell rang signifying that the first class was about to begin. Everyone went to his Period 1 class. However, there was not any teacher here either. They waited and waited, not daring to get into any mischief because they did not know when the teacher would suddenly appear. Finally, Period 1 was over and not one thing had been accomplished.

Next on the agenda was Period 2. Everyone decided to move on to his next class. The waiting period began again. But still no teachers.

It was now time for recess. Potato chips and milk were sold as usual. Malcolm Cushing had a little spare time on his hands so he sold lunch tickets. Mrs. Fogg always performed this head-aching task.

On Mondays, there is always an activity period, and today was no exception. Some of the students went to Glee Club while others stayed at school and "killed time."

At 12:42 everyone dashed for the cafeteria. (I might add that everyone took advantage of the shortcut that day.) Our dinner was ready and waiting for us. Incidentally, there were teachers here.

At 12:50 everyone reported back to his home room. They waited just as they had in the morning. However, as Period 3 drew to a close they were inclined to be a little restless. They were worried about their teachers.

As Period 4 began, each student tried to conceal his concern. Each class held a party, since there might not be another chance like this in a lifetime.

As Period 5, the last class for the day, began, the student body decided it was time the situation was brought out in the open and discussed. Each class met in its home-room to hold such a discussion.

(1) The teachers had overslept. No, twelve people do not oversleep all on the same morning.

(2) They were sick. No, if there were an epidemic about town, surely someone would have heard about it.

(3) They had gone on a strike. No, why should they? Their job is easy.

(4) They had forgotten that it was a school day. Impossible, teachers never forget about school.

Finally, the day was over. Everyone went home perplexed. They just could not figure it out.

At this point, I awoke. I wonder, Why didn't the teachers come?

TALK IS CHEAP

If you were involved in a very deep conversation (commonly called "gossip") and the opposite party told you something evil, whether it concerned someone you knew or loved, what would be your first feeling? If this information concerned someone you were not very well acquainted with, you probably would listen, talk about it, and then disregard it completely. However, if someone you loved were involved in this baleful situation, wouldn't your first feeling be a deep hurt? To most people it would be. Few are exceptions! Your first impulse would be to find out if this so-called gossip were true.

Someone once said to me, "How do you know that what you hear is fact? You know how stories change during their course of travel. Weigh the facts, and then say to yourself! Is this true?"

Since this was a very wise suggestion, I have followed it from that day hence. It makes you realize that what appears to be a very shocking piece of news may be just a false rumor.

If people today would only realize that "talk is cheap", there would be much less hurt in the world than there is at this time.

The next time you are engaged in a lively group discussion and the subject turns to ridicule of others, whether you know the individuals or not, check to make the gossip a fact before you tell it to others. However, it would be better to forget it anyway, for "talk is cheap."

A REPUBLIC, IF WE CAN SAVE IT

The new frontier of today is to keep our republic free. From seventeen hundred and seventy-five to nineteen hundred and sixty-two the challenge has remained the same.

The freedom and happiness of all human beings depend upon the greatness of each individual, the ability of each to recognize right from wrong, the respect for each other, and the belief in our God and country.

We must re-evaluate the old. The challenge in seventeen hundred and seventy-five was a call to arms. Do you remember the poem telling of the famous ride of Paul Revere?

"Listen, my children, and you shall hear

Of the mid-night ride of Paul Revere, . . .

"Everyone up and to arms . . .

"A cry of defiance and not of fear,

A voice in the darkness, a knock at the door,
And a word that shall echo forevermore!

For, borne on the night-wind of the Past,
Through all our history, to the last,

In the hour of darkness and peril and need,

The people will waken and listen to hear
. . ."

In Boston town, October 28, 1789, George Washington spoke: "Your love of Liberty, your respect for the laws, your habits of industry, and your practice of moral and religious obligations are the strongest claims to national and individual happiness, and they will, I trust, be firmly and everlastingly established."

This was the foundation of our new republic. Has it failed?

Today in nineteen hundred and sixty-two we face anew the same problems of a free world, not one small new nation. The challenge, the foundation of a world republic, remains the same. The United States, the 'One Little Candle,' raised the torch of liberty and justice for all. We are fighting for world freedom and that light, too, perhaps through greater strife, will everlasting shine.

We can and must keep ever before youth the greatness of our past: the patriotism, the ideals, and the struggle that has made our nation what it is today—a republic, one nation, indivisible with liberty and justice for all.

This, education must do: we face few enemies and we must teach understanding and truth to be able to recognize the deceit of compromise and the courage to dare to negotiate, yet to stand firm in our own convictions.

We must renew and re-establish the old to be able to challenge and fight for the new republic of the world. It can be saved!

President Kennedy sounds a new cry of defiance and to arms. While speaking on November 11, President Kennedy stated: "No nation should confuse our perservance and patience with fear of war or unwillingness to meet our responsibilities. We cannot save ourselves by abandoning those who are associated with us or rejecting our responsibilities. In the end the only way to maintain peace and freedom is to be prepared in the final extreme to fight for our country and to mean it!"

This republic can be saved as long as one man with dignity, courage, understanding, and knowledge remains alive!

SHEAD MEMORIAL HIGH

The name of our school is Shead Memorial High,
Where old friends come to visit as the years roll by.

The school colors are orange and black,
And the next year the seniors wish they could go back.

As the bell rings, the pupils go from class to class;
The day goes by just like a flash.
The teachers are wonderful at old Shead High;
Like you and me, they don't want to say good-by.

We like the freshmen who are so nice to us;
They are kind and considerate without any fuss.
Next are the sophomores, who occupy rooms
five and six;
They are always happy, if it be studying books or doing tricks.

The juniors who are in rooms four and eight
Will fill the place that we vacate.
However, they are happy as you and I
Achieving an education at a wonderful school,
"Shead Memorial High"

FROM SUNRISE TO SUNSET

The sun threw out its scarlet rays
Across the trembling silver sea,
To strange, obscure, and unknown buoys,
Where the earth slept peacefully.

No one heard it I am told,
As it crept through a window pane
And playfully kissed the hair of gold,
Hair golden as the golden grain.

His sunny, smiling face is seen
By children as they laugh and play;
He shines on quiet village greens
And desert's burning sands each day.

Then he slips away in gold and red
And leaves the quiet night,
As sleepy, little curly heads
Tumble into dreams so bright.

S.M.H.S. TRANSFER

Our townspeople voted to close our high school,
Which so often had taught us to live by the rule.
Thus to Eastport our transfer was made,
By bus we would go after plans had been laid.

On September the fifth, we boarded the bus,
Expectant, anxious, and raising a fuss.
Timid we were as we landed that day,
On the grounds of Shead High, where we were
to stay.

Our fears were soon dismissed by the greeting
we got
From all Shead High students as we entered the lot.
We could see from there on we had nothing
to fear,
And it would be for us an excellent year.

We have worked and accomplished many a deed,
And with aid from our teachers, we may someday succeed.
Our classes, our memories, our friends will last long.
The teachers, the gay times, and our old Shead
High song.

In closing, I, for one might say
I'll be sorry to leave graduation day.
My stay at Shead High has been a pleasure,
Those days I'll remember and forever will treasure.

THE RAIN

It was a rainy afternoon;
Everything was wet.
The wind was blowing a gale,
And by the window where I sat,
I could watch the large, soft raindrops
Splash on nature's face,
As she fed the birds and trees
That so long waited for this grace.

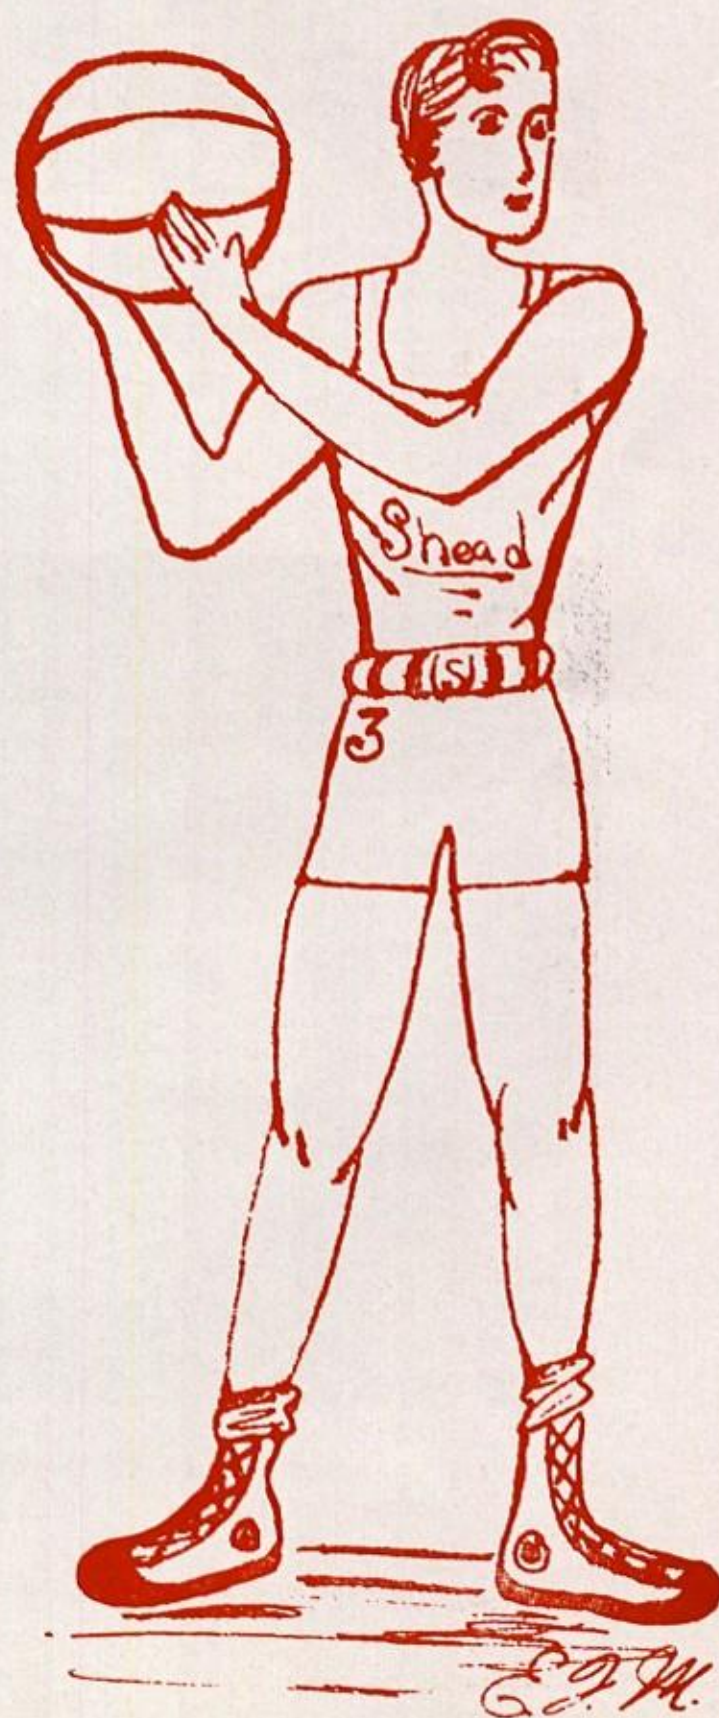

While looking out my window,
I watched the rain fall down.
I wondered all about the cities,
And the people shopping with a frown.
I bet they were a pretty sight,
Wading through those puddles;
All those bundles were getting wet;
How the shoppers were befuddled!

Well, I guess nature has her ways.
And rain is on her schedule.
She knew the earthworms needed it
And that the rivers needed fuel.
It isn't so bad after all;
Tomorrow it'll be over.
A year from now we'll forget this day
We spent inside with Rover.
